THOMAS FOODS INTERNATIONAL AUSTRALIA

ABOUT US

OUR BEGINNINGS

Thomas Foods International (TFI) was established as a family business in 1988 with a commitment to consistently provide high-quality Australian products, matched by superior customer service. To this day, TFI is still an Australian owned and operated family business.

TFI wanted to be closer with Australian customers to deliver tailored and expert protein solutions. To achieve this, TFI acquired Country Fresh Nationwide and Holco Fine Meats, in time rebranding them to Thomas Foods International Australia (TFIA).

Our vision is to accelerate and expand our capacity to service the national Australian market, and to be the most sought-after protein supplier in Australia. Being a part of the global TFI business provides exclusive benefits and intimate access to:

- domestic and international market insights to drive category growth
- competitive pricing
- greater control over production volumes
- unique access and insight to the supply chain

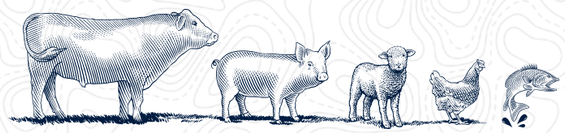

OUR FAMILY TODAY

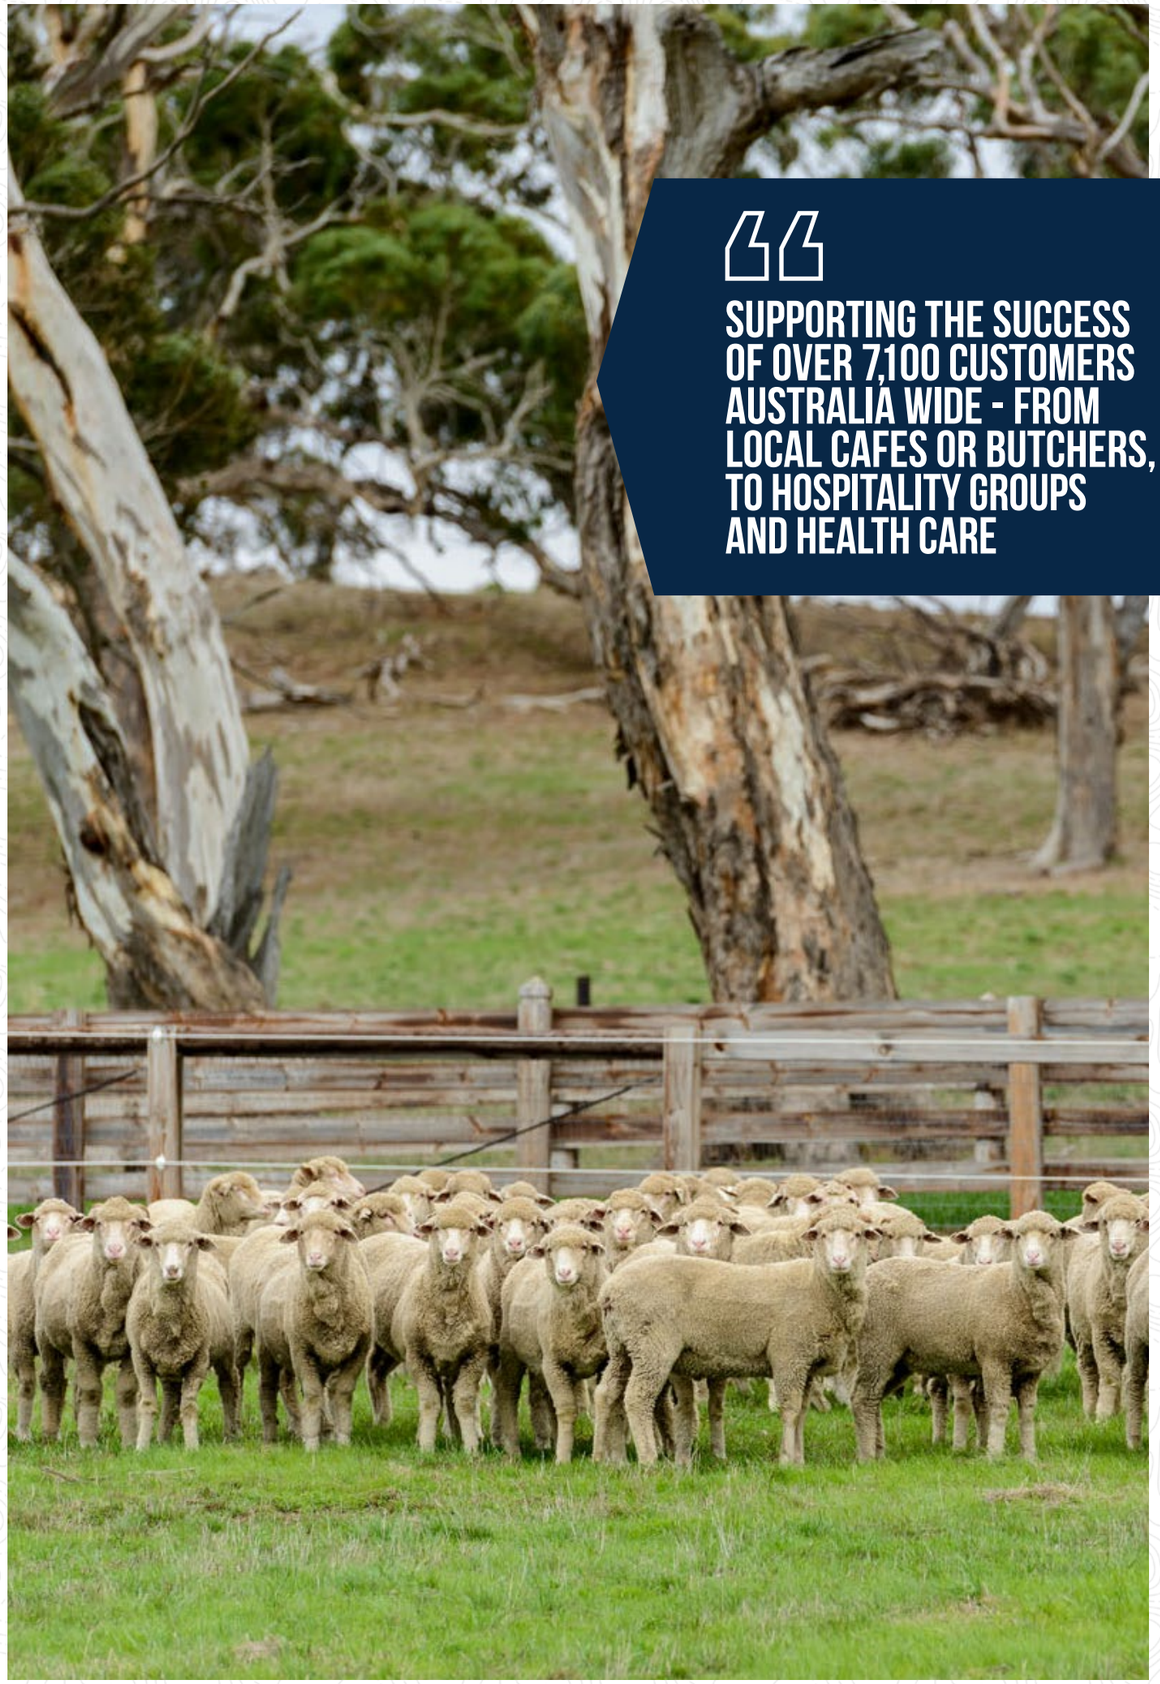

We are proud to work closely with suppliers and distributors across Australia to offer an unbeatable and holistic protein supply for our wholesale, foodservice and retail customers. With extensive connections to feedlots and processing facilities, we can offer unparalleled value to the Australian market through:

- the distribution of proteins: beef, lamb, chicken, pork, seafood, smallgoods and specialty (such as kangaroo or game)
- providing processing, portioning and value-adding
- retail ready category solutions
- wholesale distribution
- foodservice to venues and facilities

As a progressive business, we are continually evolving with, and staying abreast of consumer behaviours and changes. The increased demand for plant-based proteins has inspired us to invest in protein manufacturing technology, which by 2025 will expand our extensive protein offerings to include plant-based products.

We strive to embody quality, service, dependability and innovation at the heart of everything we do; enabling us to be your preferred protein supplier to help support your success.
